

Together But Apart

Africans and African Americans see themselves as a different race.

But don't they ever realize- they came from the same place?

The worst part is that they're against one another.

Instead of combating racism, they combat each other.

Instead of keeping the union, Abe made to set us free.

We're over here trying to fight another war, gain a victory.

Trying to say that one type of black is the best.

When it's apparent that they can't ever make a fair test.

Every type of black stays on their own side.

It like a new law all blacks need to abide.

They don't want the other types associated with their name.

They don't want them to succeed, they don't want them to gain.

Africans say African Americans are lame.

Too lazy, too dumb to find a goal to obtain.

African Americans think Africans are too cocky.

They think their accent and culture is good comedy.

See the two black worlds have different views.

It's your job to understand and let it change you.

Don't stop there tell people what you knew.

And congregate the worlds that thought they were two.
